

Good News for families

November 2020

Faithful Over (the) Little(s)

We live in unpredictable, tumultuous times. Not that any other era was better, but certainly we can all agree that our current age is volatile. There's no knowing what might happen next in the stock market, what new technology is going to take hold and transform our lives, or even what life will be like each time the political landscape changes.

For those of us charged with raising children and grandchildren, we wonder what the world will be like when these young ones are grown. Will the lessons taught in our homes now make a difference for them later? Will our training take root and bear fruit? At any point, can we stop panicking about how our precious children can be expected to make it in such a hostile, anti-Christian culture?

God has gifted us with these children. Whether He's given us one child or five, He's entrusted them to us and has certain expectations about how we should handle this gift. We're to raise them in the Lord and steep them in Law and Gospel. It's vitally important that we get this right. No pressure. Don't panic.

It reminds me a bit of the parable of the talents. Speaking about the kingdom of heaven, Jesus says:

For it will be like a man going on a journey, who called his servants and entrusted to them his property. To one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one, to each according to his ability. Then he went away. He who had received the five talents went at once and traded with them, and he made five talents more. So also he who had the two talents made two talents more. But he who had received the one talent went and dug in the ground and hid his master's money. (Matthew 25:14-18)

Even while we bump fists with the first two servants, we tend to feel a little bad for the third one. He panicked. He didn't know what to expect. He knew how unpredictable and dire this situation was, and he operated out of fear. Not just fear of the unknown, but fear of the master himself, who he felt was an unjust and reckless man.

Continued ...

The other servants instead put their heads down and got to work. They didn't panic. They simply did their work, faithfully sticking to their vocations and relying on the goodness of their master. They knew him to be a fair and just man.

Do we panic? Or do we go about our work faithfully, trusting that we serve a Lord who is good and just? He's given us quite the task, for sure, but He doesn't leave us to our own devices. He sent us Jesus to forgive us for our complete and utter failings. He sends His Holy Spirit to guide and sanctify us, strengthening us for the work that He's given. He gives us faith to trust in Him and His goodness. He drives fear and panic from our hearts, enabling us to do this work. He doubles the profit and gives us the credit.

So fear not, moms and dads, grandmas and grandpas. Keep at that work. For the sake of Christ, you, too, are sure to hear those beautiful words: "Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master" (Matthew 25:21).

Author: Dcs. Jennifer L. Miller

Scripture quotations are from the ESV® Bible (The Holy Bible, English Standard Version®), copyright © 2001 by Crossway, a publishing ministry of Good News Publishers. Used by permission. All rights reserved.

---

Recommended Reading

---

Family Trees and Olive Branches

Creating a Culture of Grace in Your Family

by Christina Hergenrader

Families: they are beautiful and complicated—and sometimes a big mess. They are equal parts caring and fighting with or for one another. Living as a family unit has never been easy, but what can we do to break this curse of fighting and arguing with one another?

God's grace and forgiveness offer us a guide to our troubles within our families. Follow Christina Hergenrader on this seven-part journey toward creating a culture of grace, inspired by Matthew 18:22. Learn about God's grace and how you can model it to help with forgiveness, even in the most broken of families.

124519

$14.99

Available through your Christian bookstore or Concordia Publishing House at 1-800-325-3040. Shop online at cph.org.

© 2020 Concordia Publishing House • Your church's publisher • Visit us at CPH.org
Printed in USA 851812

Concordia Publishing House
3558 South Jefferson Ave.
St. Louis, Missouri 63118-3968